

APRIL 2026

THE VOICE EXPRESS

The Truth Takes Time.

THE VOICE EXPRESS GAZETTE

Ek Wa Ki Nama

Thoughts on Sharjeel Imam and fre

POLITICS

Ek Waqt ki Namaaz

A seven-panel illustrated essay by journalist and activist Firaq — written from the experience of his own arrests at the India Gate and JNU Long March protests — on Sharjeel Imam's return to Tihar jail, and what it means to witness the state's appetite for detention from inside a cell. Illustrated by Mouli Sharma.

BY FIRAAQ

3 APRIL 2026 · 1 MIN READ

ABOUT

The Voice Express

The Truth Takes Time.

EDITOR IN CHIEF

Mouli

WEB DEVELOPER

Mitali (Aayat Mahnoor)

CONTACT

thevoiceexpress@proton.me

WEBSITE

<https://thevoiceexpress.in>

LOCATION

New Delhi, India

INDEPENDENT • VOLUNTEER-RUN

VOL. 18 • EST. 2022

© 2026

Following is a seven panel series illustrating the author, Firaq's thoughts on Sharjeel's return to Tihar, formed from his own experiences in jail (Firaq was first arrested last year in November during the India Gate protests as a journalist and independent participant, and again this year at the JNU Long March protest in February, again, as a journalist and independent participant). It has been edited and illustrated by Mouli Sharma.

1

When I was in Tihar, I had a conversation with a Muslim jailmate from UP, about Sharjeel Imam. He said, “Hamare gaaon me hum sab log har roz ek waqt ki namaaz Sharjeel bhai ke liye padhte hai.”

That day, I realised just what it is that Sharjeel has earned.

2

I believe history will remember Sharjeel for two things:

Mouli Sharma^[3] is an independent journalist and illustrator from New Delhi. Her work has appeared in publications like Maktoob Media^[4], GroundXero^[5], The Observer Post^[6], The Leaflet^[7], Nivarana^[8], The Polis Project^[9], Article 14^[10], Feminism in India^[11], and been republished in SabrangIndia^[12], NewsClick^[13] and Think Global Health^[14]. She is a published photojournalist & illustrator and has been featured in the Hindu College Gazette^[15] and the quarterly Pink Disco^[16]. She is the editor-in-chief of the student-run news site, The Voice Express^[17], and is a literary editor for the digital lit-mag, The Queer Gaze^[18].

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Firaaq

CONTRIBUTOR

Firaaq is a scholar of human rights and an independent journalist based in New Delhi. His work has appeared in publications like NewClick, GroundXero, and Nutan Charcha.

NewClick · GroundXero

The Voice Express

The Truth Takes Time.

READER-SUPPORTED JOURNALISM

Read this article online

Support via Razorpay

Read the magazine

The Newsstand

SOURCES & REFERENCES

- | | |
|-----------------------|----------------------------|
| [1] NewClick | [10] Article 14 |
| [2] GroundXero | [11] Feminism in India |
| [3] Mouli Sharma | [12] SabrangIndia |
| [4] Maktoob Media | [13] NewsClick |
| [5] GroundXero | [14] Think Global Health |
| [6] The Observer Post | [15] Hindu College Gazette |
| [7] The Leaflet | [16] Pink Disco |
| [8] Nivarana | [17] The Voice Express |
| [9] The Polis Project | [18] The Queer Gaze |